

As summer winds down, children's thoughts across Southwest Orlando will inevitably turn to the first day of school. The school year, which begins Aug. 22, is only a month away, and students and their families can get a head start by preparing now. The beginning of school is an exciting time, but some might worry about what the coming year may hold. Southwest Orlando Bulletin's 14th annual Back to School guide provides a comprehensive look at a variety of school-related topics. In the following articles, area experts offer insights into different concerns often brought about by the start of a new school year. For students, there are articles about making friends, fall fashions and building self-esteem. For parents, there are tips about saving for college, preparing first-time preschoolers, and helping children reach their fullest potential.

Remember the 529 Advantage

by John E. Russi, CPA, P.A.

407-345-1191

www.russicpa.com It is highly likely that future children or grandchildren will pursue higher education g

Advantages of the 529 plan are that there are no income limitations; assets in the plan can be used to p

Withdrawals are free from federal tax unless withdrawn for purposes other than higher education. Partic

The Communication Trap

by J. Restrepo

Victory Martial Arts

877-797-7988

www.victoryma.com Communication technology is one of the fastest-growing global trends. Every day

South Korea, the country with the most broadband access in the world, has a growing number of commu

One of the best ways parents can protect the younger generation from falling into this trap is to involve c

What Is a "Networked Learner?"

by Donna Montague-Russell, headmaster

Windermere Preparatory School

407-905-7737

Written by Southwest Orlando Bulletin Staff

www.windermereprep.com The train has left the station, as the saying goes, and there is no turning back.

The answer is that teachers must be technologically engaged themselves. Teachers can teach only what they know.

Good Nutrition Is Important for Good Learning

by Amber Eastwood, A.R.N.P.

Windermere Pediatrics

407-297-0080

www.windermerepediatrics.org When preparing breakfast for their children, parents should choose protein-rich foods.

Eating a healthy lunch keeps children's minds sharp and ready to learn throughout the afternoon. If eating a healthy lunch is a priority, parents should encourage their children to eat a variety of fruits and vegetables.

Eating dinner as a family should be a priority. Studies show that families who eat dinner together have children who do better in school.

One of the most important ways that parents can encourage their children to make healthy eating choices is by modeling healthy eating behaviors.

With today's busy schedules, it can be difficult for people to choose healthy meals over convenient foods. However, there are many ways to make healthy eating a priority.

More Back to School